

Information

This document covers some information regarding the Situational Judgement Test that you are about to complete for a role at the Bank of England. Please see below the Situational Judgement Test instructions and the required system requirements in order to access the test. If you have any questions, please contact bankofengland@penna.com

Situational Judgement Test information

Thank you for completing this situational judgement test. In this test you will be presented with scenarios that reflect working life at the Bank of England and for each one you are asked what you would do.

Through this test we are measuring how closely you are aligned to our culture and ways of behaving, and therefore how good a fit you would be for a role with us.

For each scenario you should say which of the four options you would be MOST likely to do, and then which you would be LEAST likely to do.

You will need to complete every question, but there is no time limit. It is better to work through the test at a relatively fast pace – do think about your answers, but don't take too long on them.

Please ensure that you complete the test by yourself and do not discuss the questions or answer options with other people.

If you have any technical difficulties with the test, please contact bankofengland@penna.com. This email address is monitored during standard office hours.
