

Drawing the Future

The Bank of England is one of the most secure buildings in the world (we are home to over 400,000 bars of gold after all). But one day we may need a new building to house us. And that's where you come in!

We need you to design a new building that we can use in the future.

Here are a few pointers to get you thinking:

- What is the building's shape and size?
- What materials will you use so that the building can withstand extreme weather?
- How will people get in and out?
- Will there be lots of security cameras?
- How can we keep our gold safe?

Your imagination is the limit!

Design your masterpiece using the template on the back of this sheet.

Have fun!
