Minute of the Committee of Inspection for the Cashier's Banking Department on the case of Arthur Lea Wilson

"Committee of Inspection for
"the Cashier's Banking Department,
"on Friday the 4th July 1845.

"The Committee took into consideration "the case of Arthur Lea Wilson of the Cash "Book Office who was suspended on the 1st "inst. for striking a Clerk in the Out Tellers "Office, while employed there on the previous "day.

"The Committee examined the Chief "Cashier, Mr. Fenemore (Principal Out Teller)

"Mr.

10th July 1845.

"Mr. King (Superintendent of the Afternoon
"Charges), Mr. Bryant, (Principal of the Private
"Drawing Office) where Wilson has been employed,
"and Mr. J. W. Browne who was struck by "Mr. Wilson.

"The Chief Cashier reported that
"the quarrel had arisen from a struggle for
"the possession of a Stool, during which Mr. Wilson
"had inflicted a severe blow upon the face of "Mr. Browne, which rendered him incapable of "resuming his work for the remainder of the day.
"The Chief Cashier added that Wilson was a
"good Clerk, but gave much trouble to the "Principals by his flighty conduct.

"Mr. Fenemore stated that he was "not present at the time of the disturbance, but "had heard from Mr. King that it arose from
"a quarrel about a Stool, he stated that Mr.
"Browne was very steady and by no means
"quarrelsome, Mr. Wilson flighty and frivolous
"and inattentive to whatever is said to him, he
"is a very competent Clerk.

"Mr. King did not see the whole of "the transaction, but hearing a scuffle, he saw
"the parties struggling for a Stool, and inquired
"who had the best claim to it? finding that
"Browne had used it for 3 months, he decided
"in his favor, he was then resuming his work
"when he heard a blow and, on turning
"round, he saw Mr. Browne's face bleeding

10 July 1845

"face bleeding, Browne did not return the
"blow, he was not aware of the provocation that "might have led to this, but had been told by
"Mr Yardley (a Clerk who saw the entire fracas)
"that, after the decision in his favor, Mr Browne
"had carried the Stool by Wilson in a triumphant
"manner.

"Mr Bryant stated that he thought
"Wilson quite competent to the duties of the "Drawing Office, he did his work well, but
"gave so much trouble from his giddy and boyish
"conduct, that he preferred to have him removed
"from his office.

"Mr Browne stated that he
"found Wilson sitting upon a Stool which
"was appropriated to the Clerk engaged upon a
"certain walk", which he then was; he attempted
"to eject Mr Wilson when Mr King interfered,
"and he had possession of it, when Mr Wilson
"seized it, and, during this second struggle,
"Mr Wilson struck him in the face, up to that
"time, he considered the struggle to be more
"in play than in anger; Mr Wilson had
"apologized to him, and he was perfectly
"satisfied, he had no ill feeling whatever
"towards Mr Wilson.

"Mr Wilson expressed his deep
"regret at the occurrence, he felt irritated by
"a

10 July 1845

"a push which Browne gave him after he had
"resigned the Stool, whereby he lost command
"of his temper, and Struck him; he had since
"apologized to Mr Browne who had expressed
"himself quite Satisfied.

"The Committee recommend to the "Court of Directors, that in consequence of the "Youth and inexperience of Mr Wilson and

Report from the Governor regarding Transfers in Bank Stock during the Shuttings.

The following Report from the Governor, with a Letter from Mr. James Freshfield having been read, viz:

"In Submitting to the Court of "Directors the annexed Letter from Mr. James "Freshfield on the Subject of the difficulty which "presents itself to the proposal made in the "Report of the Stock office Committee, of "allowing Transfers to be made in Bank "Stock during the Shuttings,

"The Governor begs to report to "the Court that he and the Deputy Governor "have given their most anxious attention to "the Subject. — They are aware of the "desire of the Court to shorten the "period of the Shuttings for the "Dividends, and they hope to be able "to effect some reduction in December "next, preparatory to the payment of the "January Dividends; — by that time "an accurate estimate will be made of "the time saved by the change effected

"in

"in the Dividend Warrants which will
"hereafter be made payable to Bearer,

"The Governor will cause the Letter from Mr. Freshfield regarding Transfers during the Shuttings

"Dear Sir, "I have considered the "proposal made to you to allow Stock to
"be transferred after the Shutting of the "Books without the Dividend, which is
"to be reserved to the person who was
"Holder of the Stock at the time the "Books closed, and it appears to me that
"there are serious legal difficulties, which "will prevent the Scheme from being carried
"into effect: There is a difference in the case of "Bank Stock and of the Public Funds, and
"though the present question applies to Bank Stock
"only I think it better to submit to you the whole case at
"once.

Bank of England Archive (G4/68)

"According to Law as respects the
"Public Funds, and to the present practice
"as respects Bank Stock, the Dividend is
"payable to the persons who were Holders of
"Stock on the Quarterly days of payment, viz:
"the 5th of January, 5th of April, 5th of July and 10th
"of October in each year.

"The Public Funds consist of
"nothing but an Annuity; the Capital
"Stock is only a mode of expressing the "amount of Annuity, that Annuity is not
"due till the quarter day, and it becomes
"due to the person in whose Name the
"Stock Stands on the morning of the Quarter
"day. The person selling Stock on the 10th of "September cannot receive in his own right the "Dividend falling due in October, because
"that Dividend does not accrue to him, but
"to the person in whose name the Stock
"Stands on the 10th of October. It may,
"it is true be competent to the Buyer and
"Seller to make an Agreement varying these
"legal rights, and the Buyer may authorize
"the Bank to pay the Dividend to the "Seller, but in such case, the Bank would
"pay the Dividend to the Seller, not in his own
"Right but as Agent of the Buyer to whom the "dividend

"dividend, when it accrues, will legally be payable,
"and if this were worked out, it would be
"found attended with so much trouble and risk
"as to be almost impracticable, for if A sold
"£10,000 Stock to B. B authorizing A to "receive the Dividend, B might re-sell this
"Stock to half a dozen persons, before the "Dividend fell due, and each of these would
"have to authorize the payment of the Dividend
"not to B but to A. — In practice
"there must be a different form of Transfer
"in each case, and the Purchaser must in
"every case, Sign; and, after all the Bank
"would be paying the dividend, not to the "person having the legal right to it, viz: The
"Stockholder, but to an Agent or Assignee
"of the Stockholder: which would introduce
"a most dangerous deviation from the practice
"hitherto observed, the consequence of which
"I cannot foresee. — The Bank might incident-
"ally become bound to carry into effect, in
"other cases the contracts of parties which
"fluctuate and are uncertain, instead of "administering the plain legal rights which
"are clear and ascertained.

"It seems to me, that, if this
"measure of allowing Transfers to be
"made during the calculation of the "Dividends, is determined on, there are

"but

7 Aug: 1845.

"but two courses which can safely be adopted
"the one is to alter the present System and
"delay the payment of Dividends till such
"a period after the Quarter day as will allow
"the Dividends to be calculated on that
"day, and the Warrants to be made out, then
"every Stockholder, who was such on the "Quarter day would receive the dividend which
"accrued to him, all transfers made after that day
"would be without the dividend, but this
"Scheme would have the effect of postponing
"the general payment of the Dividends
"for three weeks or a month, and would
"therefore never be consented to.

"2ndly. "The Bank might apply for
"an Act of Parliament to authorize the "payment of Dividends to the persons who
"were intitled to the Stock on the day of
"the closing of the books, instead of, as at
"present, on the Quarter day. — To such
"an Act ~~of Parliament~~ there would probably
"be no objection if the Bank thought it
"worth while to press for it.

"The above being the general
"view of this Subject, there is, as I
"have mentioned, a difference in the "case

"case of Bank Stock —— At present, the
"Dividend is made to the persons Holders

The following Report of the Comm.ee of Inspection for the Cashier's Banking Department having been read, viz:

"The Committee of Inspection for the
"Cashier's Banking Department
"Report to the Court of Directors, That

14 Aug: 1845

Report of the Committee of Inspection for the Cashier's Banking Department on the late misappropriations in the Bill Office.

"That they have had under consideration "some transactions in the Bill Office which "have been brought to light in consequence of the "neglect of duty of Richard Jervis regarding "the alleged deposit of some Exchequer Bills "amounting to £400 belonging to Dr Blyth "on the 12th May last, for which he was "suspended on the 11th June, but, with respect "to which the Committee have been unable to "obtain any particulars whereon to found a report.

"In consequence however of the "discovery of the abstraction by Mr Jervis of "an Exchequer Bill for £200 deposited by Mr "Alex.r Wilson, an examination into the Bank "Books has taken place, with the view to "ascertain whether any further and what de- "linquencies had been effected, from which "it appears,

"That Mr Jervis commenced the "misappropriation of Securities belonging "to the Customers of the Bank, in June "1844, at which period an entry of two "Exchequer Bills dated "March 1844" appears "in the Ledger Account of David Walther "but which Bills are not entered in the "Journals and were not deposited in the "Treasury, in the usual way.

"In

"In the Journal of the 25th Feb: 1845 an "entry however appears of a deposit, to the same "account, of 2 Exchequer Bills of £100 each, but as no "additional entry is made in the Ledger, it is "evident that these 2 Exchequer Bills were then "deposited to prevent the discovery of the former "irregularity consequent upon the sending of the "March Bills to be exchanged for new ones.

"A further discovery has been "made of the like misappropriation of 2 "East India Bonds for £100 each, deposited on "the 21st Feb: 1845 to the account of Samuel "Pedley; - in this case the amount deposited "was £1,500. but £1300 only were delivered "to the Cashier in the Treasury: Jervis "seems, in this transaction to have waited "until the East India Bonds were taken "out for the purpose of receiving the "interest, and, he then deposited with the "Cashier (to the account of Mr. Pedley) 2 "Bonds of £100 each, which the Cashier received "altho' Jervis did not produce his journal "for the purpose of obtaining the Cashier's "signature therein.

"The Ledger Entry which originally "comprised £1300 was altered to £1500 "and the transaction remained undiscovered.

"It appears further that on two "different occasions Jervis succeeded" in

"in appropriating 2 Bills of Exchange, one
"for £200, and another for £100 deposited
"on account of Frederick Joly.

"From inquiries which have been "instituted, there is some reason to believe,
"that, with the proceeds of the Bill of Exchange,
"Jervis intended to replace the Exchequer Bill
"deposited by Mr. Alexander Wilson, as above
"referred to, but was unable to effect his
"object.

"In the transaction of this £200
"Exchequer Bill which took place on the 2nd
"April last, the entries are complete in all the "books, but, by the falsification of the number
"in the Journal, to which no Cashier's signature
"is appended, he was enabled to avoid
"detection.

"The Bank have already made
"good the amount of the 2 Bills of Exchange,
"but the Exchequer Bill for £200 has not yet
"been deposited to Mr. Wilson's account.

"In consequence of the above
"discoveries, the Committee have instituted
"a rigid inquiry into the mode of keeping
"the accounts in the Bill Office, and,
"They find that the Chief Cashier has "already directed that the Principal or
"Deputy Principal shall receive all Exchequer
"Bills

Another Report of the Committee of Inspection for the Cashier's Banking Department having been also read, viz.

14 Aug: 1845.

Second Report of the Committee of Inspection for the Cashier's Banking Department on the late misappropriation in the Bill Office.

"That they have, in compliance with "his suggestion, reconsidered the Report of "the 4th instant, and they have made a "searching examination of every Clerk in the "Bill Office (except Mr. Savage who is absent "on leave) and of Mr. Hendrey and Mr. Keys "of the Cash Book Office, who have been for "some years employed in the Bill Office.

"The whole of these 14 Clerks agree "in stating that in the case of a Stranger coming "to deposit Exchequer Bills at the Bill Office, "he would have been first attended to by one "of the 3 Clerks at the front desk (Frith, "Cheeswright and Burkitt) who, on learning "his business, would have accompanied him to "Mr. Jervis, and to no other Clerk: — in the "event of Jervis being absent, the party "would have been taken to the Principals, and "it is not at all probable that the Bills "could have been handed by the depositor to "any Clerk at the intervening desks.

"The Committee are unanimously "of opinion that Mr. Lyon's affidavit is "correct in its Statement that he was "admitted into the Bill Office by a Clerk "who introduced him to Mr. Jervis, with "whom he deposited the 4 Exchequer Bills "of £100 each, on the 12th May last.

"With respect to the transaction of the "28th March "when a Cashier received the £200
"East India Bonds without asking Jervis for
"his journal, and affixing his Signature.

"The Committee have made a
"most minute investigation of all the books
"wherein such Securities are entered, and
"they have examined the Chief Cashier,
"Mr Vautin, and Mr Williams, (the two
"Cashiers in Store on that day) and Mr
"Tilbury thro' whose hands all Securities
"pass, and this enquiry has satisfied the "Committee that the Bonds must have been
"given to one of the three parties above
"named, or to the Cashier who undertook the "duty of "Storer" from 1 to 3 o'clock (but who
"that was, cannot now be ascertained) by
"Jervis, who must, in some way, have imposed
"upon them, or eluded their vigilance, which he "would be able to accomplish with the more
"facility from the circumstance that he was
"inducing them to receive Securities, and not to
"give them out.

"As regards the £200 Exchequer
"Bills not being Signed for in the Journal
"of the 1st June 1844, it does not appear
"that there was any neglect or omission
"in the Treasury, unless it be considered that

"the

"I have now the pleasure to "report to you that the Act for rendering "it unnecessary for the Bank to take "notice of Specific bequests of Stock has "received the Royal Assent and I enclose "you a copy printed by the King's Printer. Report of the Governors on the State of the Will Office.

The following Report from the Governors having been read, viz:

"The Governors report to the "Committee of Treasury that since the "passing of the "Act to amend the "law respecting testamentary dispositions "of property in the Public Funds &c." (8 & 9 Vict. Cap. 97) they have devoted "their attention to the State of the Will "Office in order to ascertain what reduction "may safely be made in the number of "Clerks. The necessity of registering "specific bequests and of making extracts "from the Wills deposited having ceased, "they have been enabled to withdraw two "Clerks from the office which now consists of "the two Principals and eight Clerks. Being "desirous of effecting a further reduction, they "have ordered after consultations with "the Chief Accountant and with the Principals "of the Register Office and of the Stock Offices "that the practice of passing transfer tickets "from deceased accounts in the Register "Office should be discontinued; — at the "expiration of Six months they will be able

The Chief Accountants proposition

"The Chief Accountant begs
"respectfully to submit to the Governor
"that dispensing with the reference of
"the deceased Transfer Tickets to the "Register Office, which has hitherto been
"the practice, would be a great relief to
"the Public, who find considerable delay
"and inconvenience from being obliged to wait
"until they are sent up there for examination
"and returned, which is in fact doing the "work twice over, as the parties described as
"dead are already made so in the Stock
"Ledgers by the Register Office, and it would
"not be attended with any risk to the Bank,
"but in cases where Clerks of the Bank are
"in a Trust, such tickets of transfer should
"be sent to the Register Office to be "marked.

"We, the Undersigned Principals, "beg leave to State, as far as we are able to form "an opinion, that not any risk from fraud, is "likely to arise from the discontinuance of the "practice of passing transfer tickets from "deceased accounts in the Register Office.

"In Joint Accounts, it is recommended "that when the Register of the decease of "either party shall be completed, the "Registering Clerk write the name of such "party in Red Ink at the foot of the "account, putting his initials thereto.
